WIFE SAVED

But Two Children Perished in Burning Building.

Horrible Death of Two Little Sons of William Stone, of Caldwell County.

News has reached here of the horrible death of the two little sons of William Stone, of Caldwell county. The mother of the children left the house for a short while and fearing her sons, aged 12 and 14 respectively, would venture on the ice of the pond near by, locked them in a room.

The father working near by in a field discovered the house was on fire and rushed to it as quickly as possible. When he reached, there the mother had arrived and was trying to enter the building which was a mass of flames. The roof fell in and the two boys perished in the flames.

The mother as she stood in the door was partly caught under the burning roof, and her face and hands were badly burned. The husband seized his wife and carried her into the front yard, but it is feared the woman cannot live, as she inhaled the flames. The husband, who is a nephew of ex-Congressman Stone, of Kuttawa, is prostrated over the sad accident.

HOWARD SET FREE.

Killed Man in Missouri Just Before Christmas.

John A. Howard, (better known as "Ellie" Howard) who shot and killed James W. Gordon at Brookfield, Mo., Dec. 17 last, has been released from custody, his trial having been concluded. Howard was formerly an L. & N. fireman on the Henderson division and is well known here. He is a brother-in-law of Mr. L. D. Burkholder, of Crofton.

The killing occurred in a saloon in which Gordon was one of the proprietors. Howard had some trouble with the saloon porter and later the difficulty was renewed when the porter struck him with a beer mug. Howard shot the negro in the hip, and when Gordon engaged in the row, he fired twice at him, mortally wounding him. Howard moved from Madisonville to Missouri about two years ago and is engaged in the insurance business with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

SOLDIER RETURNS.

Osman Freeman Back From Long Services in the Philippines.

Osman Freeman, a young Hopkinsville soldier who has just returned from the Philippines, arrived home Wednesday afternoon from San Francisco. He has been nearly four years in the United States army, the last three years of the time in the Philippines. He was mustered out with the last lot of volunteers. Young Freeman is a son of Mr. R. D. Freeman, of this city, and he reached home in fine health and was warmly welcomed by his family and friends.

Nearly all of the Hopkinsville boys have now returned, except a few who have re-enlisted in the regular army.

RECEIPTS INCREASING.

But Cash Sales Still Light—Prices Satisfactory.

Receipts since last report, 365 hogheads; receipts to date, 1,620 hogheads. Sales were small this week and the character of the tobacco offered was very common, but prices were fully up to former quotations. The marketing of the new crop is still being delayed by the bad condition of the roads. The loose market is very active, with heavy receipts from the country near by.

SENATE RECOMMENDS

Removal of Commissioners Opposed to Asylum Gambling.

Several Bills Passed in The House And a Few in The Senate.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 25.—The Senate met this morning at 10:30 o'clock, President Utley presiding. Senator Farris presented a petition from C. I. Caulfield containing charges of mismanagement against the officials of the two State prisons. On motion of Senator Farris the petition was tabled by a strict party vote of 21 to 11.

Senator Carroll introduced a resolution reciting the fact that veterans of the Mexican War were receiving meager pensions not commensurate with their distinguished services, and asking Congress to increase their pensions. The resolution was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

The report of the Committee on Charitable Institutions recommending sundry appropriations for the asylums and the removal of certain commissioners of the Hopkinsville Asylum came up as a special order.

The part of the report recommending appropriations was unanimously adopted, but the Republicans voted solidly against the recommendation that the commissioners be removed, but it was adopted by a vote of 24 to 11.

The Allen bill authorizing non-competing railroad companies to consolidate was amended so as not to apply to bridge companies and passed. It is principally for the benefit of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, which wishes to combine its various lines in Kentucky under one management.

The Byron bill providing for advertising in newspapers all sales of property of over $100 in value, under judgment of court was passed.

The Byron anti-trust bill, which is a copy of the Texas law and a stringent one, was passed unanimously.

Six new bills were introduced, bringing the Senate bills up to 241.

PASSED IN THE HOUSE.

In the House 16 bills were introduced, making 465, or a total in both houses of 706.

The State Fair Bill, which makes an annual appropriation of $15,000 for premiums at the State Fair to be held annually under the auspices of the Kentucky Live Stock Breeders' Association, was sent by a vote of 66 to 15. An amendment provides that any surplus at the end of one year's fair shall be held for the benefit of the fair the next succeeding year. Several other amendments were voted down, the one just specified being the only one to pass.

The House passed the Edwards bill, fixing permanently, as they are at present, the salaries of the Louisville City Court officials, the Bailiff, the Police Court Clerk, the Judge and others, and also providing that the Police Judge can take his annual vacation of two months whenever he desires, instead of only in July and August, and that he shall not lose his salary while absent on this vacation or while he is ill.

Mr. Burkamp's bill allowing the district of Clifton, Campbell county, to issue refunding bonds was passed by a unanimous vote.

The bill of S. W. Adams, of Kenton county, allowing property holders in cities of the sixth class to pay for sidewalk construction on the ten-year installment plan was passed.

By a vote of 48 to 12 the House refused to make a special order of the Telephone Commission Bill, and allowed it to drop into the orders of the day, where 130 bills are ahead of it.

The Revenue Bill was recommended to the Committee on Revenue and Taxation in order that the insurance men and others might be given a hearing.

The first thing considered at the afternoon session was House bill No. 2,121, by Mr. Renick, making it a felony for any person to sell the personal property of another and appropriate the proceeds fraudulently. It was passed unanimously.

Mr. Edwards' bill increasing the penalty for shooting at another from ambush was passed, the House refusing to substitute for consideration Mr. Drewry's bill, No. 302, codifying the laws affecting the Louisville Sinking Fund Board.

Mr. Weatherford's bill fixing eight hours as a day's labor for miners was taken up. A motion to recommit was carried by a vote of 39 to 37.

Mr. Denton's bill making it a misdemeanor to kill song birds or destroy their nests was passed unanimously.

The bill assigning Bardwell to the fifth class and Earlington to the fourth class was passed. Registration of voters in Earlington will be required if this becomes a law.

WEDNESDAY'S WORK.

Another Busy Day in the General Assembly.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 26.—The Byron Antitrust Bill, which has been put through the Senate by the unanimous vote of that body, and sent to the House for concurrence, which it will receive, is drafted after the Texas law. That law has been tested before the United States and held to be constitutional.

The feature of the day in the Senate was the passage of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition bill, introduced by Senator Cox, of Mason. The bill carries an appropriation of $100,000, and is amended to provide that the fund may be increased by subscriptions from cities, towns or private parties. The Cox bill is ahead of the Tompkins bill, similar to it introduced in the House, and may be expected to pass the House and become a law.

When the Senate convened the committee bill to allow John Feland, of Hopkinsville, and Senator Edwards each $250 for expenses of the contest for the office came up for a lively debate. Speeches for and against the bill were made and amendments offered, but the bill as it stood passed by a vote of 23 to 3.

The Byron bill, to eliminate professional jurors from jury service, passed.

Senator Sublett's bill, to provide that the Commonwealth's Attorney shall examine witnesses before the grand jury in felony cases, passed.

IN THE HOUSE.

The house was a trifle late convening, on account of the fact that the Democratic members were up till 2 o'clock this morning in the caucus on the Judicial redistricting bill. The result of the caucus was the adoption of the bill as drafted by the committee, with the exception of the swapping of Nicholas and Bracken counties from their respective districts. This puts Nicholas in the Eighteenth and Bracken in the Nineteenth. This "swap" caused the Chandler-Byron controversy a few evenings ago.

The House got down to work at 10:40, and the reports of committees were taken up.

The Committee on Education reported favorably the China school book bill, which is the China school book bill of last session redrafted. The Paynter bill to cede the United States government building, passed.

The Senate Committee on Education will kill the Hickman school bill, which is the Chinn bill redrafted, and if the Wells bill goes to the Senate it will doubtless be killed by the same committee.

The Dorton bill, to declare creeks, public ditches and to prevent dams or collection of drifts to dam such creeks and drainage ditches running into them, passed unanimously.

The Nuckolls bill, to appropriate $10,000 for the Kentucky Children's Home Society of Louisville, passed unanimously.

The Committee on Appropriations recommended for passage the bill appropriating $50,000 for the Deaf and Dumb School at Danville.

Senator Hickman's bill to permit the Auditor to sue the estates of idiots and insane persons for payment for maintenance of such persons in the State institution, when they are able to pay, passed the House by a vote of 60 to 0. Under the present law the institutions must bring suit.

STRUCK BY BUMPER.

Old Man Killed By Cars Near Pembroke.

John Dickinson, a colored farm hand of the Pembroke neighborhood, was struck by an L. & N. freight train, one mile north of Pembroke, Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock and fatally injured. Dickinson was walking on the track and when he heard the train approaching stepped off, but failed to get sufficiently far away and was hit by the bumper of the engine and hurled a considerable distance. One side of his body was badly crushed. The train was stopped and he was taken aboard in an unconscious condition and carried back to Pembroke, where he died in a few hours. Dickinson was 60 years old and leaves a wife.

Coroner Allensworth held an inquest Monday.

DEMOCRATIZING TO SAILORS.

Are the Parts of New York and Port of New York.

Foreign seamen say that the port of New York is a hard and uncharitable place, and that its reputation extends "the seas over." From Liverpool to Hong-Kong, says the New York Evening Post, wherever these gather crews of the deep-sea merchantmen, one hears curses on York, the gay town; York, the tough town, where Jack gets beaten and robbed, where he is haled and sold for gold. But though he may get as far away from Manhattan as is possible, he is always sure to turn about and come rolling back.

In this he is never disappointed. This American brother is amply protected by the Seamen's union, the Legal Aid society, and the Marine hospital, and the land sharks are forced to depend for their game solely on "foreign bottoms." The "game" may have deserted his ship, prompted by a curiosity to "see things" in New York; he may be just out of a hospital, physically weak, but strong in his desire for dissipation; his ship may be waiting for a cargo, or he may be a tramp, "bumming" his way home. One may see these poor fellows along the river fronts loitering in front of the grog shops, or in some hallway sleeping off a night's orgy.

One may find samples of ill-treated sailors on almost any morning at the dispensaries of the "little seamen's mission" on the lower East side. "What do you think of New York?" was asked of a young Englishman, who was having his wounds dressed one morning recently. The man had been drugged, beaten and robbed the night before. "It isn't quite so bad as Portland, Ore., was the answer. Portland, and not as in the old days, Port Said, is the seamen's stand of comparison for the ports of the world."

Present day seamen come far from being the strong, rugged men that romance and fiction have made them out to be. Deep-sea vessels that sail the world round pass three and four climatic changes in the cruise. The seamen are naturally improvident and seldom carry sufficient clothing. At the battery dispensary of the United States Marine hospital 300 "outdoor" cases were attended to last month and 95 at the hospital at Stapleton, S. I. The sick of the foreign merchant vessels in the harbor are sent to Long Island College hospital which last month cared for not less than 40 patients. This, in comparison with the American sick list and the large number of foreign seamen in port, during this cold and raw weather, is very small and leaves the impression that possibly there are many who should go that way.

Crews that come into the harbor aboard foreign ships are usually taken on in home waters, and that means that the crew signed papers which were to add them for three years, or until the ship entered a home port again. To these ships New York is a foreign port, and shipmasters who want to keep their crews never give them shore leave. Sickened by the staid excuse that gives a way for Jack ashore, and consequently this plea is used early and often. So to protect himself from fakirs, the master hires the first doctor that comes over the side. He examines the men for sick leaves, proffers for these he can treat on board, and sends the others to the hospital. The doctor often stretches a point in favor of the captain, and many a sailor has gone ashore when he should have been sent ashore to a hospital.

Best of All Nations.

A comparison of the commerce of the year with that of other countries shows that our exports of domestic merchandise in 1901 exceeded those of any other nation. The exports of domestic merchandise of the year ended June 30, 1901, amounted to $1,460,462,806, against $1,289,928,397 from the United Kingdom, $1,093,374,000 from Germany, and $803,880,000 from France.

Send Matter Given to Charity.

During the year 23,263 magazines, illustrated papers, picture cards, etc., which could not be restored to owners, were distributed among the inmates of the various hospitals, asylums and other charitable institutions of the District of Columbia, by order of the postmaster general.

EUGENE FIELD.

Best Work Was Done in Poverty—His Meager Library.

"There were two fields—the author and the man," says Susan Thompson, in the biography of Eugene Field which the Scribners have just published, "and it is the purpose of this study to reproduce the latter as he appeared to those who knew and loved him for what he was personally, for the benefit of those who have only known him through the medium of his writings."

"In doing this it is far from my intention and farther from my friendship to disturb any of the preconceptions that have been formed in the perusal of his works. These are the creations of something entirely apart from the man whose genius produced them. His fame as an author rests on his printed books, and will endure as surely as the basis of his art was true, his methods severely simple, and his spirit gentle and pure. In his daily work the dominant note was that of fun and conviviality."

It is more probable that Eugene Field chose Chicago for the place of his permanent abode after deliberately weighing the advantages and limitations of its situation with reference to his literary career. He felt that it was as far east as he could make his home without coming within the influence of those social and literary conventions that have squeezed so much of genuine American flavor out of literature.

"He had received many tempting offers from New York newspapers before coming to Chicago, and after our acquaintance I do not believe a year went by that Field did not decline an engagement, personally tendered by Mr. Dana, to go to the New York Sun, at a salary nearly double that he was receiving here."

"But, as he told Julian Ralph on one occasion, he would not live in or write for, the east. For as he put it, there was more liberty and fewer literary 'fellows' out west, and a man had more chance to be judged on his merits and 'grow up with the country.'"

"Practically all Field's scholarship and mental equipment, so far as they were obtained from books, were acquired after he came to Chicago, and he was never lifted above the ragged edge of impecuniosity until he began to receive royalties from the popular edition of 'A Little Book of Western Verse' and 'A Little Book of Profitable Tales.'"

"His domestic life was spent in flats or rented homes until less than five months before his death. The photographs taken a few months before his death of Eugene Field's home and the beautiful library in which he made his glacially travels on the island of Manhattan, and his domestic arrangements for many years before June, 1895—dreams for which he longed, but only lived to realize for four brief months."

"All the best Field wrote previous to 1890—and it includes the best he ever wrote except 'The Love Affairs of a Bibliomaniac'—was written in a room to which many a box still is paid, and his sole work was a dilapidated edition of Bartlett's 'Familiar Quotations,' Cruden's 'Concordance of the King James version of the Bible' he detested the revised version. The genius of this man at this time did not depend on scholarship or surroundings, but on the companionship of his fellows and the unconventionality of his home life."

DEAR SIR—I suffered ten years with severe kidney and bladder troubles and at times was unable to work. THE HORSE IN CONGRESS.

All Interested Which Would Prevent Docking of Its Tail in District of Columbia.

Senator Gallinger's bill making it unlawful for any person to dock the tail of a horse within the District of Columbia was introduced at the instance of the Washington Humane society, which recently passed resolutions thanking President Roosevelt for his determination not to have a pair of short-tailed carriage horses. Several pairs that were otherwise satisfactory were rejected because they had short tails, and the president's bold stand on this question was heralded far and wide.

What the Humane society did not know at the time it passed the resolutions, and what Senator Gallinger did not know yet, is that President Roosevelt's favorite riding horse, Bileston, has had his tail docked so closely that there is not enough left to waggle.

However, Mr. Gallinger's bill provides just the same that after it becomes a law every docked horse in the district shall be registered, and that after 90 days from its passage any person driving an unregistered docked animal will be held to have violated the law and shall be liable to a fine of $300 and 90 days in jail for each offense.

HYPNOTISM BECOMES A FAD.

Several of the Students of Syracuse University Become Experts in the Mysterious Art.

The students of Syracuse university have taken up the fad of hypnotism, and several have become expert in making their fellow students do all sorts of funny "stunts." The experimenting was started by J. Richard Street, professor of psychology, who is a firm believer that hypnotism will come to be used in a variety of many useful ways. He taught his students how to hypnotize, and encouraged them in their experiments.

At the Phi Kappa Psi fraternity house the boys perform in a manner highly amusing to spectators. The star hypnotist there is A. S. Hurrell, of the class of 1901, who is an expert hypnotist. He gave an exhibition before several people, and succeeded in putting E. A. Lowther, 1900, into a hypnotic state, and has his fellow student completely at his mercy. Hurrell says he can hypnotize anyone.

Chinaman Has Joke on Americans. "In the town of Zamboanga, in the island of Mindanao," said Representative Mercer, who has just returned from the Philippines, all Americans are called 'Johns' by the natives—men, women and children alike. You know in the United States the almost invariable custom is to call Chinamen 'Johns,' and they do not relax it at all, as they have their names like any other nationality. A Chinaman who had some experience with the custom referred to lived in Zamboanga, and when he heard the Americans were coming he hustled around to all the inhabitants of the village and informed them that there was nothing to be afraid of. Americans regarded as a greater compliment than being called 'Johns.' Consequently, wherever an American goes in that village the natives bow and scrape and salute him as 'John.' Then they look pleased, and their manner indicates that a few copper coins would be appreciatively received, and they cannot understand why the Americans do not respond."

Seize the Signatures. "The Kind You Have Always Bought" is the quintessence of impudence when a quondam Lieutenant Colonel of Rough Riders, by fortuitous circumstance hung into the position of Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, complacently admonishes a hoary hero, who has displayed flawless courage in every quarter of the globe, that "danger must not be weighed too nicely; those whose trade it is to dare greatly for the honor of the flag."—Louisville Times.

Mrs. Nancy Huston Banks, formerly of Morganfield but now of New York, has written a book on Kentucky life called "Oldfield." The scene of the story is supposed to be Morganfield. The book will be out in April.

TORTURES OF HINDOOS.

Terrible Punishment of a Native for Dressing a Rule of Caste.

Frederick Thompson, whose diary of jungle adventures in India is so engrossing in interest, has written a letter to a friend in California, N. J., regarding the mysterious and powerful influence of caste among the natives of India and the tortures of punishment which they sometimes undergo for infraction of its rules.

"There are," he says, "899,000,000 natives in India. To a European (all white men are styled Europeans) there seems to be a countless number of castes. The two principal creeds are Hindoo and Mohammedan. The highest Hindoo caste are the Brahmins. This caste includes the priests and principal officeholders. Brahmins are vegetarians and never know the taste of meat. The trades or professions are the same, each trade having its separate and distinct caste, and as the caste is hereditary, it follows, of course, that the trade must also be."

"These castes are distinguished by various signs. The Brahmins paint their forehead with red or white paint to denote which God they serve; some others wear a string of beads on the right arm, while even the folding of a turban is indicative of something."

"To describe even one-tenth of them would be impossible, as the meaning of the marks is known only to the Hindoos themselves. The Fakirs are distinguished by a peculiar colored robe they wear, a sort of saffron yellow. They are about the most grotesque and hideous looking objects I have ever seen. A native is not a pretty sight at the best of times, but when a man is crowned with a head of long, dirty, unkempt hair, and is smothered from head to foot in wood ashes (as these Fakirs are) he becomes positively repulsive. The power of the priests over the natives is unlimited. Should a native be so unfortunate as to lose his caste by eating a prohibited food, by using a vessel or article which has in any way come in contact with an infidel or person of another caste, or by allowing an infidel or person of another caste to use a caste vessel for drinking purposes without immediately destroying the same, or should he permit an infidel or person of another caste to pass by at meal time so that the shadow touches his food, not to mention some hundreds of other forbidden acts, then the priest fixes the amount of the fine he must pay or punishment he must undergo to regain his lost caste."

"Should the offense be beyond palliation the priest condemns him to be an outcast, oftentimes for life."

"The punishment inflicted by these priests upon outcasts is to an outsider incredibly severe, a cruel ordeal undergone merely for the sake of a religion whose visible benefits are nil and whose final reward is promised to be absorption into the Divine Essence—Brahm (God). Yet among the 240,000,000 Hindoos there is not one who would refuse to obey and carry out a punishment in obedience to the will of the priest for any offense against the Hindoo deities."

"I saw one of these unfortunate at Bareilly. He had been condemned for life to wander on foot throughout Hindoostan, resting only for a certain length of time daily, with his arms stretched to their full extent above his head. Day or night, walking or at rest, he must forever keep his arms in this position."

"This does not sound very awful, perhaps, but try it for five minutes, and then you will get an idea of what it must be like for life. When I saw him he had been undergoing this torture for six years. His hands were held erect above his head, palms turned inward, the whole of the arms bandaged."

"The hands, arms, in fact all the muscles of the shoulders and arms had become paralyzed through being kept in this position. Even though the desire of the priest is to an outsider incredibly severe, a cruel ordeal undergone merely for the sake of a religion whose visible benefits are nil and whose final reward is promised to be absorption into the Divine Essence—Brahm (God). Yet among the 240,000,000 Hindoos there is not one who would refuse to obey and carry out a punishment in obedience to the will of the priest for any offense against the Hindoo deities."

"You will readily understand that we foreigners have to be more than careful all the more so as rather severe punishment is meted out to both civil and military authorities for any offense against the native religion."

ANNOUNCEMENT

We are authorized to announce

as a candidate for Railroad Commissioner in the First Railroad District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party. Election Nov. 1903.

Prince Henry has been taking in New York for the last two or three days.

The proposed new revenue bill increases the tax rate for State purposes from 47 1/2 to 50 cents on the $100.

Senators Tillman and McLaure were restored to the Senate roll Tuesday, the President of the Senate, Mr. Fry, explaining that his object in doing this was to shift the responsibility of punishing the fighting Senators for contempt, to the Senate itself.

Tillman may be pardoned for considering himself personally insulted by the recall of his invitation to a White House dinner, when it is remembered that he, a Southern white man, is personally not gratified by a Southern darkey. Booker Washington, is received with open arms.

Representatives of the leading insurance companies of the United States are at Frankfort to urge the General Assembly to strike from the new revenue bill drafted by a legislative committee the section providing for State, county and city taxation on life insurance policies having a cash surrender value.

The second annual conference of the National Legislative League is in session at Washington. Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake, the President, and Mrs. Bella Lockwood, of Washington, addressed the conference, which afterward adopted resolutions urging legislation to secure to all native-born persons, "without regard to sex," protection in American citizenship and protesting against the elimination of citizenship of a woman who marries a foreigner and advocating trial of women accused of crime by juries composed wholly or in part of their own sex.

School Book Legislation. With the session of the General Assembly within two weeks of its limit, there has as yet been nothing done looking to a new school law. There have been many bills introduced, but all have encountered rough treatment in one house or the other.

One of the educational bills that is before the Legislature is being strongly supported by Prof. M. A. Cassidy, of Lexington, in a series of letters in the Courier-Journal. It deals not so much with the books as with the system, which it is claimed is modeled after the Georgia law. It is proposed to make the county the unit in school government, instead of the school district. The bill seeks to reduce these to 119 and dispense with 21000 school trustees, substituting a

Catarrh

The cause exists in the blood, in what causes inflammation of the mucous membrane.

It is therefore impossible to cure the disease by local applications.

It is positively dangerous to neglect it, because it always affects the stomach and deranges the general health, and is likely to develop into consumption.

Many have been radically and permanently cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It cleanses the blood and has a peculiar alternative and tonic effect. B. Long, California Junction, Iowa, writes: "I had catarrh three years, lost my appetite and could not sleep. My head ached and I felt bad all over. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and now have a good appetite, sleep well, and have no symptoms of catarrh."

WORK NEEDED.

Pikes in Many Places in Deporable Condition.

Old Pikes And New Will Have to Have Immediate Attention.

Now that the county owns every foot of pikes in it, and increased travel being a natural consequence, it is very evident that the proper persons will have much to do to keep the property of the county in a condition necessary to stand the continual heavy travel during the tobacco delivering season.

Parties from the country report that there are two places on the Bradshaw road that are almost impassable, on the new pike on the Butler road is in the same condition, and the piece of road built last summer during and after the good roads convention is reported to have "sunk out of sight" since the snow began.

The county is confronted with a very serious matter and one which demands immediate attention. No doubt the proper persons will, as soon as practicable, repair all defects.

INTERVIEW

Of One of Hopkinsville's Successful Business Men.

A Live Working Board of Trade Needed to Build up the City.

The continuous increase in the population of Hopkinsville is most remarkable. Year after year people are moving into the city from the surrounding country and elsewhere, and there is no reason to apprehend a cessation. As fast as residences go up they are occupied, and this increase in population naturally calls for putting on foot enterprises that will afford employment for those who have to labor to maintain their families. There is plenty of capital that is now earning a very small percentage, which if invested in safe enterprises, would, without doubt, yield its possessors fifty per cent. more than if invested in bonds.

This is not the opinion of a man not possessed of capital himself, but can always see an opening for some one else more fortunate than himself.

One of the most successful business men in the city asserts that Hopkinsville has arrived at a point in its history when our people will be compelled to reach out and appropriate some of the great opportunities that are almost every week within our grasp and are allowed to pass by without notice. We will lay before the readers of the KENTUCKIAN the substance of what he stated in a recent interview, knowing full well that an intelligent public cannot possibly disagree with him. They are facts palpable that anyone can recognize them as such.

He stated in the outset that the first great need of our city is a well organized, working Board of Trade. He can't see why the solid business men of Hopkinsville can be so indifferent to the necessity of such an organization. Cities of the size of this all around us have such organizations and reach out after everything that goes their way. What would Louisville do without its Board of Trade and Commercial Club? See what Lexington's business men are doing for that place. Even ancient Frankfort "has got a move on itself." It is only a knock the bottom out of the capital removal question, and is now straining every muscle to secure the erection of a new capital building. When that is done the capital removal question will be buried under the new capital's foundation. He says if we had a working Board of Trade the government building that this place is entitled to would have already been completed. As an advertisement this building would be worth $50,000 a year to us. In this paper last issue we published a letter from Congressman H. D. Allen as to the prospect of Hopkinsville securing a public building.

The gentleman made reference to the Baxter road that is being built mainly through efforts of the enterprise of Clarksville men. Being pointed this way, he thinks a Board of Trade could have this road extended to Hopkinsville. He says that Hopkinsville now has almost everything needed, except a public building and electric street cars to make it a perfect little city. He is satisfied that a Board of Trade could easily direct the capital necessary to put in the latter in a short time. Two years ago a millionaire wrote to a friend in this city asking for information as to our population, etc., and expressed his willingness to invest some of his money in that way. As there was no Board of Trade or Commercial club here this opportunity was lost. He says that such things pass our way every day, but owing to want of organization of our business men capital goes elsewhere for investment.

Another great need is factories of different kinds. They can be secured if inducements are held out to those who want to establish them. Everybody realizes the necessity of factories, but somehow our people have never "gone for them" as they should. Nothing contributes more to the building up of a city as factories of different kinds. South Bend, Indiana, has now a population of 35,000 and pays out every week to employees $55,000. This is strictly a manufacturing city. There is every reason to believe that Hopkinsville might in a few years have a population as large as South Bend. Here we are, 75 miles from any large shipping point, surrounded by the most productive country in the world, our people the best in the world, but lacking the push and enterprise to make Hopkinsville one of the best little cities in the country.

Only a few weeks back a number of gentlemen, seeing the great necessity of an electric car line to the coal mines, talked the matter over among themselves and concluded to push the enterprise. Abundant willingness manifested itself on the part of others approaching the subject to prove that the project could be carried out if some one possessed of the requisite push would take hold of it. A live Board of Trade would never have let this thing die aborkin'. What we need is a putting together of the heads of the business men of the city to prove the wisdom of the gentleman we have so freely quoted. He is not afraid to back up his opinions with money. He always invests freely in any new enterprise that is gotten up. His opinion in business matters is worth something. Anything that he considers safe is not allowed to pass by if he can avoid it. He is not visionary, but carefully weighs everything that comes before him.

Something That Will do You Good

We know of no way in which we can be of more service to our readers than to tell them of something that will be of real good to them. For this reason we want to acquaint them with what we consider one of the very best remedies on the market for coughs, colds, and that alarming complaint, croup. We refer to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it with such good results in our family so long that it has become a household necessity. By its use, we haven't any doubt but that it has time and again prevented croup. The testimony is given upon our own experience, and we suggest that our readers, especially those who have small children, always keep it in their houses as a safeguard against croup. Chamberlain (S. C.) Messenger. For sale by all druggists.

HAMLET.

BREATHITT AND SHRYER

Resign Their Places on Asylum Board.

Messrs. James Breathitt and M. F. Shryer, the last two Republicans on the Asylum Board of Commissioners, on Monday tendered their resignations by wire. There is probably more or less politics in their decision to get out and thus place the Republican party in an attitude to deny any responsibility for the unfortunate condition of affairs at the asylum. Their resignation leaves only three commissioners, as the four new ones had not received their commissions up to Monday, when the old board held its last special meeting, just before the above mentioned members resigned.

BRILLIANT YOUNG LAWYER

Upholds His State's Reputation For Oratory.

The Cumberland University law school held an oratorical contest on the 22nd of February in which many young men from the several states made manly efforts for the championship and after the three judges had duly considered the productions and delivery, two voted for Mr. Miller, of Idaho, and one for John H. Bruff, of Kentucky. Though young Bruff is a junior student, every other man who was in the contest was a senior. The juniors all affirm that Bruff deserved it, but Bruff says never mind that, there was no one on the East side of the Mississippi that beat Kentucky, and that he did not expect to make 100 in examination in two weeks and write and deliver an oration that would beat anything in that Bryan section. Young Bruff is considered one of the brightest and shrewdest young lawyers in the university. Soon after he entered the junior class he showed marked ability as an orator and the class chose him class orator. We hope that John may be an honor Old Ben Hardin and Chas. Wyckliffe, from whom he sprang.

A FRIEND.

In commenting on the contest, the Cumberland Weekly said of Mr. Bruff:

"We are delighted with Mr. Bruff's success in the oratorical contest. He came to Lebanon about the first of February, entered the junior law class, made up extra more than one-half of the History of Lawsuits, stood his examination with a splendid average, composed, wrote and memorized his excellent speech in full and got one vote out of three of the judges, together with a demonstration from the audience in the way of applause that was indicative of victory."

The young man referred to is a son of Mr. J. H. Bruff, of Julian, in this county.

Biliousness Cured.

H. Seever, a carpenter and builder of Kenton, Tenn., when suffering intensely from an attack of bilious colic, sent to a nearby drug store for something to relieve him. The druggist sent him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, three doses of which effected a permanent cure. This is the only remedy that can be depended upon in the most severe cases of colic and cholera morbus. Most druggists know this and recommend it when such a medicine is called for. For sale by all druggists.

Wadlington-Lloyd.

The announcement is made that Mr. Will H. Wadlington, the well known young druggist, formerly of this city, and Miss Mabel Lloyd, daughter of Mr. R. R. Lloyd, of Pembroke, will be married early in April.

Twenty-three Years.

In view of the fact that the KENTUCKIAN has wound up its 23rd year of success, it is not out of place to say a word to its friends. The KENTUCKIAN has long since become a fixture of Hopkinsville.

All Newspaper Records in the City Have Been Broken by it.

No other paper ever published in Hopkinsville can point to a record of more than 20 years, with each year's business better than the one before. How many papers in that time have tried to run in Hopkinsville and fallen by the wayside? How many have failed to reach the goal?

An ocean cable 10,000 miles long would not serve the purpose for which it was designed if it fell short within twenty feet of the receiving-instrument.

It isn't the first end that counts. It's the last end. The start is nothing. Every contestant starts in a race, but how many finish? Almost any horse can begin in a race. Wish a few trials, ever an old plug may get away from the wire all right, but it's the coming under the wire for the last time that counts, it's being in the race to the finish that is alone valuable.

A great many things in this world are made to begin well enough, but they fall short.

The KENTUCKIAN as an advertising medium has never fallen short. As a news medium, occupying a field of its own choosing, it has for 20 years stood squarely upon its merits and succeeded

WHERE OTHERS FAILED.

Advertisers should bear this in mind. Money spent for Newspaper Advertising is an investment. It is not how much the advertising costs, but how large will be the returns. The mission of Newspaper Advertising is to Sell Goods. When the careful merchant has decided the important question as to the right medium, then, by attractive display advertising in that medium, he will inevitably increase sales. This result follows as surely as day follows night. The is the medium that pays, because it reaches the people. It has among its patrons advertisers who have been with it without a break for 12 to 15 years. It numbers the very best class of advertisers in their respective lines of business.

If you are not already a customer of ours, we want to make you one, and your advertising ONE OF OUR SPECIALTIES.

Newspaper advertising has become an indispensable adjunct to business. You need the advertising, we have the space to sell. Come less do business with each other.

And to the reading public, remember we cover the entire news field twice a week for only $2 a year. At least one half of the news we give is in advance of other publications, because our facilities for gathering out-of-town news are equalled by none. If your time is out renew promptly. If you have never taken the KENTUCKIAN, try it for 1902.

Chas. M. Meacham.

THIS AND THAT.

The power plant at the St. Louis exposition will be the largest in the world and exercise the power of 31,000 horses.

The loftiest tableland in the world is that of Assay, in the Andes. An area as big as Yorkshire lies at a height of 14,500 feet.

A painted white swan on a dark panel at the sportsman's show, Philadelphia, is so lifelike that visitors insist on touching the surface to make sure that it is not the work of a taxidermist.

In 1273 Friar Bacon predicted that flying would "shortly" become a general practice, and Bishop Wilkins in 1652 said: "It will yet be as usual to hear a man call for his wings when he is going on a journey as it is now to hear him call for his boots."

Civil engineers and river men who have been watching the course of the Missouri river for some time, endeavoring to account for the extremely low stage of water, believe that some subterranean waste of the waters that were formerly drained by the Missouri river is gradually lessening the volume of water.

The shortest peoples in the world are the Eskimos, the Lapps, the Negroes and the Akkas of mid-Africa. North America, England, Prussia, Sweden, Poland, Manchuria and China count among their peoples the tallest members of the human race; very tall men and women are also to be found among the Patagonians.

The plow is certainly the oldest and probably the simplest of agricultural implements; being represented among the hieroglyphics on the ancient tombs of Egypt, dating back more than 4,000 years. As early as the year 1000 B. C. the plow was described by a Greek historian as consisting of a beam, a share and handles.

JEALOUS DOG'S REVENGE.

Neglected Pet Chews Up Tires of a New Bicycle.

People who know dog nature say that the more affectionate a dog is the more jealous it is. A small black poodle out in Flatbush recently gave a curious exhibition of jealousy that is chiefly remarkable for the amount of intelligence back of it.

Fido is a French poodle belonging to Mr. Thomas B. McDowell, former city surveyor of Brooklyn, says the New York Herald. It is particularly attached to Master Fred McDowell, the 14-year-old son. Fred has recently become the proud owner of a bicycle, and now spends all his spare time on the wheel. Poor Fido is sadly neglected.

That the dog feels the neglect it has shown in several ways. One of the symptoms that appeared very human was to draw attention to itself by being sulky, and this it would alternate by a fit of more than usual affection toward its master.

As the boy was going out to wheel not long ago, Fido followed him out on the sidewalk, looking very sulky. As the boy was starting off the dog leaped at the bicycle and fastened its teeth into the tire of the hind wheel. Such was its fit of rage that it had to be beaten off.

This did not end the matter, so far as Fido was concerned, and it at once resumed plotting against the hated rival, this time with more success. When Fred went for his wheel the other day to take his accustomed ride he was surprised to find the tires of both wheels chewed up and torn almost to shreds in places, and both of them as flat as pancakes. Now the whole McDowell family is asking: Who but Fido could have done it?

Profitable Weddings.

What is known as the "pay wedding" is popular in Germany. The bride receives the guests with a basin set before her, and into this each visitor entering the reception-room drops either some jewelry, a silver spoon, or a piece of money. In some parts of the country the expenses of the marriage feast are met by each guest paying for what he or she may eat and drink. Some visitors pay high prices, and the happy couple make a handsome profit out of their wedding, as many as 300 guests often being present at such a festival.

It is stated that the total value of geese consumed in Berlin will exceed $3,500,000, and the consumption is increasing rapidly.

VENDOME STOCK COMPANY

Will Present "Miss Hobbs" at Holland's Opera House.

Jerome K. Jerome's splendid comedy, "Miss Hobbs," will be presented at Holland's Opera House by the Vendome Stock Company next Monday night.

Between the acts specialties and vitograph pictures will be given and the engagement will doubtless prove one of the most satisfactory of the season.

This company had been playing to packed houses in Nashville, until the Vendome theater was destroyed by fire, and they have been engaged for the next season.

Ninety-Eight Per Cent.

There is a fascination about big profits to a business man. But the conservative and cautious trader prefers to have the lesser per cent. of interest and the larger per cent. of safety in his investment. There is no business man who would not consider it a sound proposition to invest in an enterprise in which absolute loss was impossible and which offered ninety-eight chances in a hundred of a rich profit. The statistics of cures effected by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery show that ninety-eight per cent. of cases of "weak lungs" can be absolutely cured. Almost if not all forms of physical weakness may be traced to starvation. Starvation saps the strength. The body is just as much starved when the stomach cannot extract nutrition from the food it receives as when there is no food. "Weak lungs," bronchial affections and obstructive cough, call for nourishment. "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies that nourishment in its most condensed and assimilable form. It makes "weak lungs" strong, by strengthening the stomach and organs of digestion which digest and distribute the food, and by increasing the supply of pure blood.

VIVID PICTURE

Of Thrilling Events By "Chevalier Bayard" of Army.

Gen. Gordon, who lectures at Holland's Opera House March 10, on the "First Days of the Confederacy," with one exception, is now the sole survivor who held high rank in either army and prominently participated at the close of the great struggle at Appomattox who is capable of giving to the people a vivid picture of these thrilling events. An orator, of the highest order, a soldier without previous training, whose rapid rise from the rank of captain to the command of one wing of Lee's army reads like a romance, who was designated, in official reports, as the "Chevalier Bayard" of the army, and who has devoted his time and talents to the reconciliation of the sections. Gen. Gordon must necessarily accomplish great good by his lecture tour, as well as furnish the young men of the country the only opportunity perhaps that will ever occur of learning of these great events from a living, capable and faithful witness.
